

Flowerdew Hundred Tour March 23,2013

The Heritage Center has the opportunity to provide a special tour of "Layers of the Past: Discoveries at Flowerdew Hundred", a new exhibition at the University of Virginia that highlights many of the artifacts removed from Flowerdew and sent to the University by provision of the Harrison family. This temporary exhibit is due to close in July of 2013. Our group will also see Flowerdew Hundred: Unearthing Virginia's History, a permanent exhibit, also made possible by the Harrisons.

The bus will leave from the Heritage Center at 9:00a.m. Our day will also include a chance to see the surrounding area, including the beautiful grounds and Rotunda of the University. Our leader will be Karen Shriver, Prince George resident and the curator for the Flowerdew Hundred Collection.

$30 per person to offset the cost of the bus. You're on your own for lunch at one of the many eateries around Charlottesville.

Call or email to reserve your space: 863-0212 or PGHistory@aol.com.